THE DEWEY RECEPTION

Another Committee Meeting to Further Arrangements.

General Miles Gives His Reasons Why Regular Troops Should Not Take Part in a Night Parade-A Change in the Program Suggested -Two-Days' Celebration Probable.

Washington may have two days of celeration when Admiral Dewey returns to this city. At a meeting of the executive ommittee on the reception, at the Ames Bullding yesterday afternoon, a letter from Maj. Gen. Nelson A. Miles was read, in which he offered several objections to the regular troops taking part in the night parade. The missive stated that should the troops be called out to participate in the reception, a precedent would be established which might cause trouble in the future, as under existing conditions even the President is not entitled to a night parade of United States troops in his honor. Another objection offered was that the glare of red fire and pyrotechnics which would accompany the night parade would be very likely to cause much trouble with the raw cavalry horses, and in the event of any accident or ludicrous incident, the effect of the whole pageant ould be spoiled. After the reading of the letter by Secreary Van Wickle, Chairman Moses introduced Major J. A. Johnson, assistant adjutant general, U. S. A., who has been appointed General Miles' chief of staff in the parade. Major Johnson cited the objections of the War Department to the night parade of regulars, who are supposed to be dismissed when the day's work is ended, and dwelt upon the dangers which were almost certain to come from driving several troops of raw cavalry horses through red fire and Roman candles. He urged that a change be made to hold the parade in the afternoon of October 2 or upon the following day.

The report was received favorably, although the change will upset the labor of nearly a month. After a long discussion, Chairman Larner, of the stands committee, proposed that the civic parade be held on the night of October 2, as originally intended, and that the military parade and execut to the Capitol be held at noon on the following day. This was received favorably, and a special committee was appointed to prepare a report which will be received this afternoon. The civic parade, with fireworks, torches, and searchlights, will be held as was intended and will be reviewed by Admiral Dewey, the President. viewed by Admiral Dewey, the President, and other officials mentioned and invited. Nearly 10,000 men have been assigned to pinces in line and the parade will be about two hours in passing. No horses will be allowed in the night parade, however, and every precaution will be taken to avert ne-

On the following day, at noon, it is suggested that the military parade take place. This will be in the nature of an escort to Admiral Dewey to the Capitol, where he will receive the sword presented by Congress. The line will be composed of the Admiral and his retinue, the President, members of the Cabinet, all of the State. War, and Navy officials on duty in Washington, the Covernors of twenty-four ington, the Governors of twenty-four Sintes and their staffs, three troops of regular cavalry, several battalions of marines and sations, regular infantry and ar-tillery, the District of Columbia National Guard, and details of State troops from-many States. The civil escort will be com-posed of fifty prominent citizens, and the parade will be a big feature and will give an exportunity to see Admiral Dewesgive an opportunity to see Admiral Dewey

Navy Department had ordered the gunboats Machias and Marietta to this city during the reception. It was also reported that General Miles will accompany the Washing-ton reception committee to New York, and aid in receiving the Admiral, Marines will be ordered to this city from League Island and Norfolk, and a good showing will be made. Chairman W. H. Rapley, of the pa-rade committee, reported that already nearly 5,060 men had been figured upon in the parade, and replies are coming in every day. The answers received so far include the District of Columbia National Guard, the Grand Army of the Republic, the Old Guard, the Spanish-American War Veterona, the Union Veteran Legion, the United Catholic Societies, the Letter Carriers, the Young Man's Christian Association, bleycle clubs, labor organizations, and secret and playing. They contained organizations.

Chairman Stellwagen, of the committee charman stellwagen, of the committee on transportation, reported that the South-cartern Passenger Association had held a meeting at the Raleigh Hotel during the afternoon, and had agreed to give a rate of one fare for the round trip. CAPTAIN CARTER'S CASE.

Wayne MacVengh Arrives Ready to Make His Argument.

Contrary to expectations, no progress was made yesterday in the Carter case. Wayne MacVeagh, leading counsel for Captain Carter, did not reach the city until late last night. He is registered at the Arlington, and will remain in the city several days. When seen by a reporter for The Times last night General MacVeagh from Pennsylvania. He came to place him-self at the disposal of Attorney General Griggs, and was ready to present arguments in the Carter case at any time. General MacVeagh did not know when the case would be heard by the Attorney General. He will call at the Department of Justice this morning and expects that a time will then be named for arguments to be pre-sented. He declined to discuss the points in the case, stating that his views had been given the public several weeks ago. It is expected that arguments will be heard today by Attorney General Griggs, after which it is believed to be the intention of the Administration to reach a final disposition of the matter without delay. The Attorney General was in consultation with the President yesterday in reference to the present status of the case, giving color to the rumor that a final settlement

It is hardly credible, but nevertheless a fact, that a Rochester man, a familiar figure on the streets of this city, is being exhibited about the country as a "wild man." When the street fair and carnival was here there was on exhibition a wild man, and a Rochester man conseived the idea of venturing into the "wild man" business as a source of profit. He accordingly entered into negotiations with "Tom" Kane, who was once a shoemaker, but who is, now se crippled by rheumatism that he can only go about with the aid of a crutch and a heavy cane.
